

Customer referral case study - full design, supply & Installation of a newly built commercial office building

Following a referral by one of our existing customers, Graypen approached Harlequin with a view to furnish their new, state of the art Global Head Office in Immingham.

After the initial meeting to establish requirement, preliminary 2D drawings were generated, taking into account the Architect's light and airy, open plan specification. Across multiple rooms and departments, space was optimised and a final layout and 3D visual created making good use of natural light from the large, full height windows.

Drawing approved, the installation took place over 3 days, our installation teams worked flat out to ensure the building achieved an on schedule completion and minimal disruption to our clients business.

Following our 5 year working relationship, Harlequin continue to offer a first class service at our offices around the UK.
